Yes for Chess

Fridays, 1:45 PM - 2:45 PM, 1st - 5th grades

12-week session: $156

September 14 - December 21

At Yes For Chess, they take a unique approach to teaching chess to children. Rather than forcing students to memorize lengthy combination patterns and judging success entirely on winning, they concentrate on the end result of playing chess, which is developing critical-thinking, creative problem-solving, concentration and patience. They believe that chess should be used as a tool to teach students skills they will use throughout their academic careers. They are certain that a child's improvement in the classroom and progress on a chessboard are interconnected.
